UVEF Names 2008 Award Winners

OREM, Utah – December 11, 2008 – The Utah Valley Entrepreneurial Forum (UVEF) today announced winners of the 2008 Annual UVEF Awards. The awards spotlight outstanding Utah companies and leaders who have contributed at the highest level to business growth and their communities. Award recipients were recognized at ceremonies held today at Noah's in Lindon.

“These recipients demonstrate the power of ideas coupled with sound management,” stated Shauna Theobald, chairman of the board, UVEF. “These companies and individuals represent the highest character and spirit that personify the term - entrepreneur.”

2008 Winners include:

Utah Entrepreneur of the Year - John Edwards, Move Networks
Most Innovative Product - Hand-held X-Ray, Aribex
Ronald K. King Social Entrepreneur of the Year – Warner Woodworth
Community Service Award - Todd Manwaring
Greatest Contribution to Entrepreneurs – Paul Allen, Provo Labs
Utah Valley's Best Kept Secret - Reflect Scientific

At ceremonies held last month, UVEF named Dr. Bill Jordan Pope and BYU Center for Entrepreneurship as 2008 Hall of Fame Inductees. More details at www.uvef.net.

The UVEF is a non-profit support group working to share knowledge and experience. As a nonprofit organization founded in 1989, the UVEF promotes the development and growth of entrepreneurial ventures by: providing networking opportunities, promoting recognition of business accomplishments and contributions, sharing business experiences, and by encouraging free enterprise. Information on upcoming meetings, speakers, and membership can be found at www.uvef.net.
